

Has your baby been cared for in a Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) in the last 5 years and received antibiotics for suspected or confirmed sepsis? We would really value your insight.

Who we would like to hear from

We're inviting parents and carers whose babies were treated for suspected or confirmed sepsis in neonatal intensive care. We welcome families from all backgrounds, cultures, and identities, including those from Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic communities.

Why your voice matters

Your experiences will help us understand what really matters to families. This is not research – it's about shaping and improving future research and care for babies with sepsis.

How your input will be used

Your experience and insight will help us plan research that better supports families. Anything you share will be kept confidential.

What taking part involves

- Three separate online conversations with a researcher and a small group of parents and carers who have had similar experiences.
- You will receive £27.50 per hour, plus £5 per session to cover data costs to cover data costs.
